What started out as a walk down memory lane turned into a really interesting research project about the history of businesses we've lost in the Somerset Hills over the last 50 years. The memories that people keep about these businesses are truly exciting to capture. Growing up is so much more than just playing around. There are these indelible marks on us all that we remember; bowling, getting ice cream, having a pizza, sitting at the lunch counter.....whatever. So The Mr. Local History Project went out and started a game to tie mimic college basketball's March Madness.

Businesses Lost in the Somerset Hills Over the Last 50 Years

Look at the sectors that have lost businesses over the last 50 years in the Somerset Hills. Retail establishments lead the way with over 28 businesses on the list lost, followed by 18 restaurants. Services lost came in third with 15. Rounding out the top five were bars and apparel businesses.

To create our list, the Mr. Local History Project started our research to find as many businesses that have either survived 50 years or were established over the last 50 years. We then reached out to the public to submit any business that they felt deserved to be history's greatest of all time (HGOAT) businesses in the Somerset Hills. Finally, we then grouped in similar fashions and created a series of brackets where people would vote. The winner moved on to the next bracket until we had a winner.

Find out what the most loved businesses were that we lost in the Somerset Hills over the last fifty years.

Here's what happened.....

How to Play Along

People followed us on our Facebook page. If you like just one bracket challenge you are in the game. They visited often and voted. Each week over four weeks elimination brackets were created. The first bracket was the most difficult to match up as we tried our best to determine "like vs. like" competitors. But as the game went on, some very difficult choices needed to be made.

The H-GOAT GAME – Loved Businesses Lost In Somerset Hills History #HGOAT

The HGOAT Game started with 63 businesses. You had to win 6 elimination rounds to be crowned HGOAT CHAMPION.

Who Got To the Final Four

The Mr. Local History Project contacted the public to identify most businesses that are no longer around but all remember. The MLH Project then posted business against the business where the public got to vote during each elimination round. The winner moved on to the next round. Some of you might have heard a similar "battle of the bands" on the radio where you vote for one of two choices. One moves on to compete in the next round against the other previous winner, as the rest fall off the list. The process continued for six rounds until the brackets were complete and we crowned a winner.

Voting took place on our Facebook page. If you didn't have Facebook you could follow along by clicking on our Gossip Page.
